The Knoxville Chronicle says: We understand that the long pending litigation between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, involving the right of possession to the old and valuable church lot on Church street, between Prince and Walnut (or Crooked), has been compromised—the Methodist Episcopal Church retaining possession and the Methodist Episcopal Churh South, relinquishing all claims, by the former church paying costs of suit and at-torneys' fees. The settlement is an important one, not only because of the value of the property involved, but because of the character of the litigants. It is, we believe, the last source of contention between the churches at this point involving property. and the settlement is a fit subject for congratulation on all sides.

A Dishonest Express Messenger Neatly Ensnared.

Memphis Avalanche, Sept. 6, James R. Hogan, late messenger in the employ of the Southern Express Company, running between Memphis and Texarkar-na, was brought before Squire Winters yesterday, charged with robbing money packages carried by him. It was stated in evidence that during the past five or six months numerous packages shipped from Texas to Memphis, and points beyond, were found to be "short" when opened and the contents counted at destination. The frequency with which these "short" money packages turned up, at last opened the eyes of the officers of the company to the fact there was a thief somewhere who pilfered the packages; but who he was, or how he did the thing was a perplexing conundrum to them, as the seals on the envelopes were always found to be in perfect order, and no mail car, it was flagged down three are low-spirited in damp and foggy marks whatever on the envelopes which would indicate that they had been in any way tampered with. An investigation was commenced, and it revealed the fact that all the packages which were "short," had passed through the prisoner's hands. Suspicion then fell upon him, and traps were laid to ensnare him.
